Biography

Tom De Vita was born and raised in Queens, New York. As a young child, he became extremely interested in the styles and methods of the “Master” painters and sculptors. In 1993, he received his Bachelor of Fine Arts from St. John’s University, in drawing, painting, and sculpture.

In 1994, De Vita relocated to Miami Beach, Florida. He created and developed many paintings, murals, and reproductions for the newly renovated South Beach area residences, hotels, and restaurants. He used many of the techniques of the “Masters” and was able to incorporate these disparate styles into his work.

Currently, De Vita owns De Vita Studio, Inc. and De Vita Studio Art & Design Workshops. He also is a full-time Professor at The Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale, part-time Professor at Barry University, Broward College, Digital Media Arts College, and The Miami International University of Art & Design.

De Vita is married to artist and Illustrator, Lynda De Vita. They live in West Pembroke Pines, Florida, with their two boys, Christopher and Jack.
